Thule announces the feature-rich and lightweight sports stroller, Thule Glide

Thule Glide is a high performance sports stroller with a lightweight aerodynamic design that allows you to get the most out of your run or stroll, on any terrain. It is one of the lightest in the category, yet extremely stable and filled with smart functions. Thule Glide is part of the Thule product category designed specifically for active parents - Active with Kids. A series of products that help parents to live an active life with small kids. Thule Glide comes in Dark Shadow (dark grey) and will be available in stores during the fall of 2014.

Thule Glide is packed with features for the serious runner who wants to run with small kids, regardless of terrain and season. To get the most out of the run, Thule Glide come with a fixed front wheel that provides increased stability when moving at a fast pace. An extended multi-position and ergonomic handlebar provides a superior kick stride for the runner. A hand activated brake increases braking control on steep terrain. Thule Glide has lightweight wheels and aero shaped lightweight rims with high-quality bearings to ensure superior rolling resistance. Two large 18-inch rear tires and a 16-inch fixed running wheel in front. Rear suspension has been added for a smooth and comfort ride for the child.

Thule Glide has padded seat and can be adjusted to an almost horizontal sleeping position for napping. A multi-position canopy for added protection with "view in" roof port to see the child. Thule Glide also features one-handed folding for compact storing and transporting. Accessories to enhance the Thule Glide include a car seat adapter that can be purchased separately and that fit with a variety of car seat brands. Thule also offers a Snack Tray, Rain Cover and Mesh Cover.
